Games for Girls | April 2006 and April 2007

University of Urbana Champaign

Served as a designer and programmer in an all-female student team to developed a computer game for middle-school girls. Our game, "Green, eggs, and Pan" was selected as the first place winner by a panel of game experts and middle school aged girls. The following year, our game "The Great Eggventure" took second place.

EXPERIENCE The Bradford Group | Nov 2008 – present

Web Designer

Implemented a major portion of a site revamp for a large e-commerce site (www.collectiblestoday.com) to reflect new branding. Created custom images with typographical call outs depicting products for sale on the site. Adapted templates to create niche-marketed "microsites" built on top of x-cart e-commerce software. (www.hawthorneforkids.com, www.bradfordhockey.ca). Created and updated documentation of site maintenance.

The Melodramatics Theatre Company, Inc. | January 2007 – May 2008

Graphic and Web Designer

Designed brand identity and related visual materials for the group and semi-annual theatrical productions. Designed and implemented the group's website (www.melodramatics.com), and created technical documentation.

Cornell University Statistics Department | June 2007 – January 2008

Web Designer

Redesigned and implemented the Cornell University Department of Biological Statistics and Computational Biology's website (www.bsbc.cornell.edu/). The site redesign adheres to Cornell University visual identity guidelines. I worked with department staff to develop the information architecture for the site to better serve diverse users of the website.

Risley Theatre

General Manager | November 2006 – September 2007

Publicity Manager | August 2005 – November 2006

As general Manager, I ensured proper administration of the theater and conducted weekly meetings. As publicity manager, I created print publicity material and coordinated its distribution around the Cornell University and Ithaca community.
